World War II POW still suffers bomb effects

AERIAL VIEW OF CORREGIDOR — W. A. (Fred) Curet Jr. said the Japanese attacked the Allied forces from the back at Corregidor and the American big guns were not able to turn around to fire at them. It seems the American military leaders never expected an attack from the back. After capture by the Japanese, Curet remembers collecting every piece of metal including nails and putting them in drums to be sent to Japan for them to use in manufacturing war materials.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The 38th anniversary celebration of the World War II Battle of Bataan and Siege of Corregidor is scheduled in the Philippine Islands April 9 and will be attended by J. C. Baxter of Bay St. Louis, a former prisoner of war there.

In a previous edition, the Sea Coast Echo presented Baxter's story of his ordeal 38 years ago, and today we are proud to present the recollections of W. A. (Fred) Curet, Kiln native and Bay St. Louis resident who was also a World War II POW captured at Corregidor.

The Echo feels world conditions today make the stories of what these two men encountered just 38 years ago particularly appropriate today.

We must not let ourselves again become unprepared the way we were when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor and overran the Philippine Islands and virtually the entire South Pacific.

By ELLIS CUEVAS

On August 9, 1945, as the atom bomb dropped on Nagasaki, Japan, Kiln native W. A. (Fred) Curet Jr. was within a 10-mile radius of that area, Marching as a POW to his job as a coal miner.

"Every body thought the world was coming to an end. The Japanese guards started treating us real nice. They gave us extra food and even new clothing," Curet recalls.

In 1939, Curet dropped out of school with about a third of a credit to go and joined the U.S. Marine Corps in New Orleans. He did his boot training at San Diego and then was stationed at Marie Island, Calif. on shipyard duty.

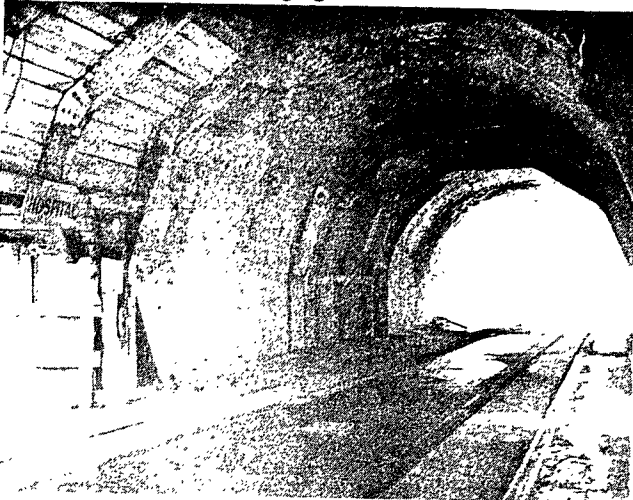

In late 1939, he was sent to Cavite, Philippine Naval Yard in motor transportation.

When captured by the Japanese on Corregidor after General Douglas MacArthur fled the 'rock,' Curet weighed 200 pounds.

He was promoted to the rank of sergeant on the day he was captured by the Japanese, May 6, 1942, the day Corregidor fell.

"My gun placement was only 100 yards from the spot General MacArthur boarded the boat leaving Corregidor, near the hospital entrance of Malinta Tunnel," Curet said.

MACARTHUR'S LAST STAND - W. A. (Fred) Curet Jr. and his fellow Marines remained to slow down the Japanese when General Douglas MacArthur left Corregidor. Marine Cpl. Curet's gun placement was only a few feet from the entrance to this tunnel which he said served as headquarters, hospital and supply depot known as the Malinta Tunnel.

Bay utility rate analysis shows need for 38.5% hike

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Roger Comeaux of Barbay Engineers, Inc., Tuesday night recommended to the Bay St. Louis City Council an overall increase of 38.5 percent in utility rates for the city.

The recommendation came after a rate analysis of the utility system was compiled by the engineering firm.

Council immediately tabled the recommendations for study by the City leaders.

Comeaux said, "If the City does not make a rate adjustment, by the end of the fiscal year, the city will suffer a $190,000 loss," according to their calculations.

The proposed rates by the analysis made by Barbay recommended an increase in the cost of gas at 23.3 percent, water 33.7 percent, and sewer 168.5 percent or a total utility increase for customers of 38.5 percent.

Geraldine Lang, chairman for the Concerned Citizens, after the lengthy, through presentation by Comeaux said, "I don't feel like I should," when asked by Council President Pete Benvenuti if she had a comment.

Ms. Lang did ask a question about the proposed sewer rate change which was explained by Comeaux.

The current rate for sewer service is one half of the cost of the water bill. The new proposal recommends a flat rate of $7 per month for residential users.

The analysis costs for the survey were shared by the city and Gulf Coast Community Action Agency, (CAP).

Doyle Moffitt, executive director of CAP for Harrison and Hancock Counties, stated, "I cannot see the city continue operating at a loss, it has to do something."

Moffitt added, "I champion the administration for the task you have. It is not as much of a measure as it could have been. We want to thank you for letting us work with you."

Councilman Fred Wagner commented, "I would like to thank Mr. Moffitt and his agency, we appreciate your sharing the expenses involved. We know the analysis is not to the satisfaction of anyone and will add a serious burden to our citizens."

Comeaux made mention several times about a recommendation the city could help the consumers with in-proving the system from the 15 percent loss of gas it is now suffering.

"System maintenance is where Bay St. Louis gets to a problem, rates are going up, all systems are having same problems. When something like a leak developed, over the past years the city did not have enough maintenance which is causing the 15 percent loss. The losses will be high unless something is done, maybe 20 percent,"

Mississippi Power forgoes rate appeal

Mississippi Power Company will not appeal the Public Service Commission order allowing the Company a retail rate increase of $16.8 million, according to Victor J. Daniel Jr., president.

"The decision not to appeal the order was reached after careful review of the text of the Commission's order, its effect on Mississippi Power Company's financial condition, and on the advice of attorneys."

"We still believe that the Commission's decision is totally unrealistic and that the $23.9 million request was not excessive when you consider that inflation rates have skyrocketed to the highest level in our history," he emphasized.

"However, by accepting the order and not appealing the case, Mississippi Power Company will not face a long and expensive period of litigation in the courts, and increased revenues received in the future will not be under the restrictive cloud of being subject to refund. The company's financial needs are immediate. Any lasting benefits from the appeal process would be about three years in the future."

Daniel reiterated that "Mississippi Power Company has always asked for only the amount needed to maintain good service to our customers. Inflation continues to hurt the company just as it adversely affects every business and individual."

Officials at Our Lady's Academy Catholic School Wednesday refused to comment about reports that several students were expelled earlier this week as a result of alleged possession of marijuana.

Reports indicated Principal Michael Ryan, School Board President Michael Haas, and two priests allegedly found marijuana in a number of students' cars in the parking lot, resulting in the expulsions.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson and Bay St. Louis Police Investigator James Mallini Wednesday said their agencies took no part in the search.

Boat contract signed, Halter sales increase

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Pearlington division of Halter Marine has signed a contract with Palquemes Offshore, Inc. to construct pilot boats for the New Orleans-based company and Halter officials report their sales have increased dramatically.

At a recent meeting of the County Port and Harbor Commission, a lease-option agreement with Halter was extended six months on a plant building and surrounding property the company now occupies at Port Bienville Industrial Park.

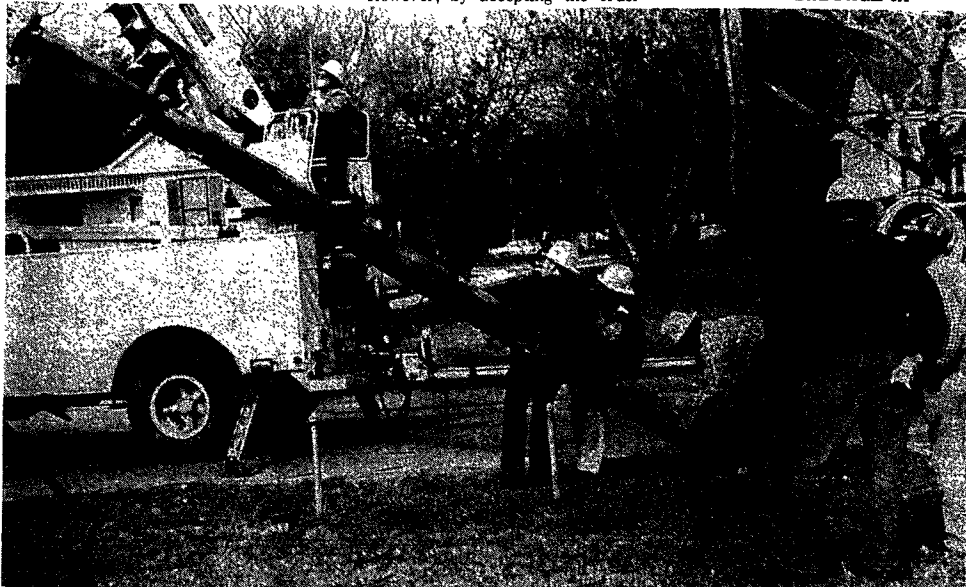

"We've had more sales this month than we've ever had in any given month since our Pearlington division began," said Rick Stinson, general manager.

"We signed a contract with Palquemes Offshore, Inc. on March 24 to build an undetermined number of pilot boats," Stinson reported.

"The Coastal Fisherman 31, (a 31-foot, fiberglass Lafitte skiff) was thought to be ideally suited for a river pilot boat due to its versatility excellent performance and speed," the general manager explained.

"This contract marks the beginning of Halter's new marketing approach by introducing the Coastal Fisherman line as a non-fishing, commercial-line vessel in areas such as the oil field industry and transportation," Stinson said.

"We've been talking with a lot of the oil companies about the advantages of utilizing our boats and the future really looks good," the plant manager added.

SUNDAY OVERTIME—Mississippi Power Company crew works Sunday morning on Bay St. Louis' North Beach Boulevard at Breath Lane to repair downed power pole, the third to be handled by the men that morning. Crew Chief Howard Lader of Long Beach, second from right, said poles also fell victims to automobiles Sunday morning in Gulfport and DeLisle. Bay police reported Douglas Alford, 28, of 225 Melody Lane, Bay St. Louis, apparently lost control of his vehicle and struck the pole about 3 a.m. He was charged with driving while intoxicated and causing damage, according to investigating officers Albert Eble and Wilbert Dorsey. Curtis Bell, right, of Bay St. Louis Utility Department, assisted with repairs which also involved a sewerage lift station, telephone lines and cable television lines. Mississippi Power crew members include operator Garland Mitchell of Long Beach, far left, and guiding the pole, Ernest Benvenuti of Pass Christian, Harold Wangerin of Gulfport and Kenny Welch of Pass Christian. FOSTER MOTHER

Davene Bennett, foster mother to 15 wayward children, has developed an unusual approach to child rearing, portrayed in 'Wild Horses, Broken Wings.' The program will be rebroadcast on Mississippi ETV at 8 p.m.,

Sunday, March 30, on channels 19, Biloxi; 12, Booneville; 17, Bude; 45, Columbia; 23, Greenwood; 29, Jackson; 14, Meridian; 2, Mississippi State; and 18, Oxford-University. First seen in 1978, the hour-long program explains that Mrs. Bennett learned from her Cherokee father the art of catching and training wild horses that once roamed the New Mexico ranges. She has drawn upon this knowledge and her deep religious faith to develop an individual and effective style of caring for children who have been neglected, orphaned, abandoned, abused or 'spoiled.' 'Children are like horses,' she says. 'It's not so much a matter of teaching children as it is of training them.' Every summer, the family journeys by horseback across the southern New Mexico desert into the Gila Wilderness for an annual camp-out. The trip proves a long and arduous test for the children, who develop saddle sores, bleeding hands and sore, bleeding blisters along the way. However, Mrs. Bennett believes the children are pushed to exceed themselves, which, in turn develops a good self-image. And a good self-image, she says, 'is one of the most important things a child can have.'

GUMBO Z'HERBES
One Tbsp. Lard
One Tbsp. flour
One bunch each (or one package frozen each) spinach, collard greens, turnip greens, and half a medium sized cabbage, shredded.
Bunch beet tops, parsley, green onions - you can use any one or so.
If using fresh greens, chop well, wash, etc. If frozen, drain and chop. Put in large, heavy pot along with two or three quarts of water. Bring to a simmer, add three bay leaves, a teaspoon of basil, half teaspoon of thyme, salt, pepper, a red pepper pod or dash of Tabasco.
While the greens are cooking, brown salt pork or ham bits or bacon strips in a tablespoon of lard and add to the pot. Let it all simmer an hour or so, and at the very end stir in a tablespoon of flour, dissolved in cold water - somehow it makes the greens melt in your mouth like cream.
So, for good friends and good luck, don't forget the Green Gumbo on Good Friday - it will also give you the energy you need to plant those Red Beans on Good Friday - another tradition for luck in the coming year.
(Copyright, 1980, Katharine D. M. Caire)

It was a tradition among the Creoles of Old New Orleans, and many others as well, to eat plates of Gumbo Z'Herbes on Good Friday. The custom was to put as many greens as possible into the pot, on the theory that for every green used, a new friend would be made in the coming year.

In those days, of course, making the Green Gumbo was not only a labor of love, but a long, long back-breaking labor, what with the tedious washing, washing and picking over the greens several times, getting rid of the sand - perhaps that's why Green Gumbo's popularity has waned through the years.

But with today's methods of freezing, etc., Green Gumbo is easy to prepare. Here's a generations old recipe, for

COUNTRY LIVING

'A Horseman Riding By,' a 13-part series about elegant early 20th century English country living, airs on the Mississippi ETV Network at 7 p.m., Wednesdays, beginning April 2. The setting is a small Devon Valley with its manor house and farms, a community—that is interlinked and interdependent. Based on R.F. Delderfield's novel, 'A Horseman Riding By' spans the first two decades of the 20th century—decades of change both within the valley and outside. Paul Craddock, the hero of 'A Horseman Riding By,' is city-bred, though he has been quickly removed from the cut and thrust of urban life by his ambitious self-made father, from whom, upon his death, he inherits a small fortune.

Whether from guilt or urban claustrophobia, Craddock retires to a farm in Devon where he proceeds to orchestrate country life with as sure a feeling as his father had for town.

DOORS, WINDOWS AND DRAFTS

The greatest heat loss relative to the size of an opening is the space under your outside doors. All exterior doors should be weather stripped on three sides and have a tight fitting threshold at the bottom. Windows should also be tight and weather striped.

Check around windows and doors for caulking. Air may infiltrate where your sidings meet window and door frames. Also, look to see that you have a good seal where the storm windows meet the frame of the prime window. Use good caulking compound, since this is a time consuming job and you should not have to do it more than once every 5 to 10 years if you use the right material. Buy an acrylic latex caulk and it will give you the best possible combination of longevity, paintability and elasticity.

A good method of locating hidden cracks is to move a lit candle around your door and window frames on a windy day and look for a flicker of the flame. It will indicate those areas which are in need of weather stripping.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at PRESSMAN REALTY, 1332 Hwy. 90 W., Waveland. Phone 467-2224. We're here to help!

NARFE charter affair is today

An official charter will be presented to the Buccaneer Chapter of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees today at 11 a.m. in Pass Christian.

The presentation will take place at the Gulfshore Baptist Assembly.

The area chapter of the NARFE is open to all retired federal employees living in Hancock County and Pass Christian, according to Chapter President Dan Sentilles.

Also, presently employed Government employees, 55 years and older, who are approaching retirement are invited to attend and become acquainted with the activities of this organization.

NARFE works for the betterment of conditions particularly applicable to the Federal retiree and many programs are planned to acquaint the membership with laws and proposed laws affecting the retirees, Sentilles explained. The meeting today is a Dutch Treat affair, the local president said.

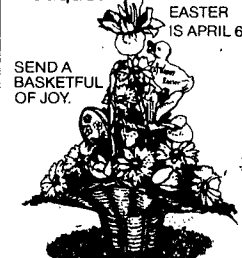

ETV News

Lighthearted entertainment is on tap Saturday evening, March 29, on Mississippi ETV when the comedy "Three Men in a Boat" returns for an encore showing and "The Most Happy Fella," one of the theatre's most celebrated musicals, makes its public television debut. "Three Men in a Boat" can be seen at 7 p.m., Saturday, March 29. It's 1889, and all's not well with the world. At least not for three sporting Englishmen and a disapproving dog. Harris, George and J. have decided that all is not well with the world and that the perfect tonic is a trip up the Thames from Henley to Oxford. What the three friends have not counted on is the disparity among their personalities and their expectations from such a voyage. U. (Tim Curry of "Rocky Horror Picture Show" fame) is filled with the inner satisfaction of meditation and the contemplation of the historical significance of the Thames. Harris (Michael Palin, "Monty Python") is after satisfying his passion for tombs and monuments. And George (Stephen Moore) is mostly of a somnambular nature. The interesting chemistry among these three—and wholly unpredictable Montmorency the dog—could be as responsible for the fireworks as any nautical insufficiencies. "The Most Happy Fella," a "Great Performances" presentation, follows at 8:30. Giorgio Tozzi and the full Broadway cast star in the revival of Frank Loesser's 1956 sensation.

"The Most Happy Fella" was taped before a live audience at Detroit's Michigan Opera Theatre just a few days prior to its October 1979 Broadway opening. Sidney Howard's drama, "They Knew What They Wanted" is the foundation on which Loesser built his most ambitious work.

Loesser has written a love story complicated by deceit and infused with homespun comedy.

The Kiln Volunteer Fire Department now has a new fire truck and it is something they can all be proud to own.

Through Farmers Home Loan a grant was received. The only catch was residents had to approve the Kiln Fire and Water Protection District which had been accomplished.

We would like to extend our congratulations to all the people who organized the new Fire and Water District, for seeing a need and working the tireless hours to make it a reality.

At a drug symposium presented at the City-County Library, Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson made headlines stating there is a 'Marijuana epidemic here.'

We received an unsigned letter to the editor, (which we do not run) from a reader who said he or she would rather remain anonymous.

The letter questioned whether we would cover the story of all the kids being caught using drugs.

Well, we have checked with the Bay St. Louis Police Department and also the Hancock County sheriff's office. Both agencies report the schools in question handled the drug problem themselves.

We have made efforts to get more information than we have been able to collect. Believe me, we worked for two days on this case for more information.

The letter writer stated the public schools even though overcrowded, will probably have to immediately enroll anyone expelled from the private schools.

We feel it is time for parents and concerned citizens to realize there is a drug problem in Hancock County, and it is probably worse now than ever before, even though our sheriff and two police departments put more effort in enforcement now than ever before.

No child is immune, no matter the status of his or her families. Please educate your children of the dangers of drugs.

This is the time of year many of us love, even though we have had our share of rain. We are talking about the many Azaleas in bloom at this time.

There are so many different colors, and some bushes are completely filled with flowers.

The news given the Bay St. Louis Council by Roger Comeaux, representative of Barbay Engineers, Inc., Baton Rouge, La. was not the thing residents of Bay St. Louis wanted to hear.

But we have to say this: the rate analysis on utilities of Bay St. Louis by Comeaux had everyone in attendance complimenting him on the outstanding job his firm did in preparation.

And we have to agree, it was one of the best presentations we have ever seen given by an engineer. No, we had never met Comeaux before Tuesday night.

MISSISSIPPI ECONOMIC COUNCIL -- THE STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Dr. Zbigniew Brzezinski, President Carter's national security advisor, will address the 31st Annual Meeting of the Mississippi Economic Council April 9 in Jackson.

Dr. Brzezinski heads a state of nationally and internationally known speakers who will address issues of concern to the world, the nation, and Mississippi, according to MEC President Benton Cain, a Jackson businessman.

"The Annual Committee, chaired by Kosciuszko publisher W.C. Shoemaker, is assembling an outstanding state of speakers," said Cain. "Others will be announced as plans are finalized."

All sessions will be held at the Holiday Inn Downtown in Jackson, according to Shoemaker.

Dr. Brzezinski, the assistant for national security affairs, is a former Herbert Lehman Professor of Government and director of the Research Institute on International Exchange at Columbia University, New York.

Born in Warsaw, Poland in 1928, he settled in the United States in 1938. Dr. Brzezinski, who holds B.A. and M.A. degrees from McGill University and a Ph.D. from Harvard University, has taught and completed research work at both Harvard and Columbia Universities, and serve in several top government positions prior to becoming national security advisor.

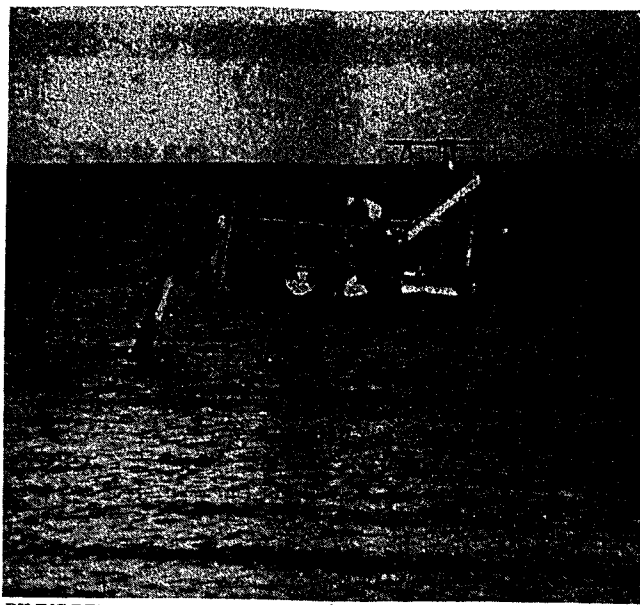

He is the author of several books on the Soviet Union and the United States' position in the world and has contributed numerous articles on comparative government and international affairs to both U.S. and foreign publications.

Dr. Brzezinski will speak on "The World Today - American Alternatives" at the evening banquet.

"The sessions this year are being designed to give members a close look at issues which affect our state, the nation, and the world," said Shoemaker. "Issues to be addressed are: world affairs - the expanding international crisis in Iran, Afghanistan, and our military preparedness; nationally - the economy, inflation, and a comparison of the American economy with others in the free world; and at the state level - our highways and transportation, both critical to the economic future of the state."

Shoemaker said that the theme of the luncheon will be the American economy compared with others of the free world and the afternoon session will be concerned with Mississippi's highway system and will include a panel discussion on the state's transportation needs. All three sessions - luncheon, afternoon, and banquet - will be April 9.

"The meeting is open to all MEC members, business associates, friends, family members, and others interested in Mississippi," said Cain.

PILING REMOVAL UNDERWAY—Three employees of Herman R. Ladner Tractor Service, of Bay St. Louis, pull up pilings along the county shoreline. The Hancock County Board of Supervisors recently accepted the Bay St. Louis company's low bid to remove pilings offshore in Bay St. Louis and Waveland. The supervisors decided not to charge the owners for abandon piling removal, but will do so in any future piling removal projects.

Health Tip

From the American Medical Association

Psychoactive Drugs Alter Mental State

Psychoactive drugs are those substances that have the capacity to influence behavior by altering feeling, mood, perception or other mental states.

There are many of these drugs. Some are legal, others are not. Even tobacco and coffee have some psychoactive properties.

The American Medical Association divides psychoactive drugs into four groups — (1) Narcotics, such as heroin, morphine and methadone. (2) Depressants, such as barbiturates, tranquilizers and alcohol. (3) Stimulants, such as amphetamines, cocaine and tobacco, and (4) Hallucinogens, such as LSD, marijuana and peyote.

Dependence on alcohol is by far the most prevalent of all the drug dependencies.

Narcotics originally meant opium and pain relieving drugs related to opium, such as heroin, morphine and codeine. These are made from the opium poppy. Today there also are some synthetics, such as methadone. Heroin is not used medically in this nation. Other opiates are used to relieve pain, suppress cough and alleviate diarrhea.

Depressants are used to induce sleep and to ease tension. They are used properly in the treatment of certain sleep disorders and anxiety states. They also are subject to abuse. The barbiturates bring sedation and sleep. An overdose can cause coma and heart and respiratory depression. A common mode of suicide is an overdose of barbiturates. Long-term use can bring strong physical dependence.

Stimulants increase activity by stimulating the central nervous system. They include amphetamines, cocaine, Ritalin and Preludin. The amphetamine user has, for a short time, increased mental alertness and sense of well-being. Psychological dependence can develop in a fairly short time. Tolerance develops rapidly and increased amounts of the drug are needed.

Hallucinogens produce illusions. They have no accepted use in medicine. Most potent is LSD. It is legal for use only in government-controlled research projects. Marijuana is in wide use illegally. It brings relaxation. Even small doses may adversely affect driving performance.

Chronic users may become psychologically dependent.

Anti-draft, anti-war

demonstrations called disturbing

Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir:

It was very disturbing to me as an American citizen and veteran, to hear of the anti-war and anti-draft demonstrations held in Washington D. C. this past week.

For the first time in America's history, we have stooped to a third rate country brought to our knees and practically begging for mercy for our hostages and trying to use diplomacy with a country whose government is run by militant students.

We are faced with communist aggression from the Soviet Union which at all costs, for the security of our country and the entire world, cannot be allowed.

This is not a Vietnam! We are faced with a serious threat. And these demonstrators (anti-Americans) have the nerve to start their protesting already!

If we should go to war, patriotism and unity is the backbone to victory.

We cannot have these people rioting in the streets adding to our already many problems, and encouraging disloyalty and draft-dodging among young Americans.

If these anti-Americans are not willing to serve and fight for their country's security and freedom, as Americans have in the past, then maybe they should all go to the jungles of South America and form their own Utopian Society, and leave America for Americans-people who will not stand for such insults that have been dealt by the Iran.

As for the draft, the President only wants to set up the registration. In case of war, many months will be saved in this long process.

It is hard to understand the need for the draft, unless a person has first hand experience of a combat unit in the field, to see what type of men and leadership are needed.

I hope Gulf Coast residents do not disgrace our country, by following the examples of these radical protestors, but instead unite against these foreign threats.

It will be much wiser and more beneficial to all, to pray through these crises rather than protest.

Sea Coast Echo

Dear Editor,

I read with interest the article extending an invitation to the Hancock County School Board to attend Roland Ladner Day at the Coliseum.

The perplexing article provoked a few unanswered questions.

Perhaps, the reporter made an error. Should it have read a Charlie Jacobs Day?

I do not recall Coach Roland Ladner's Hawks winning State Championship two years in a row as did Coach Charlie Jacobs' Hawkettes.

If indeed the article is correct then it is ludicrous-the wrong person is being honored.

How about being more judicious and less biased by honoring the person who merits it.

The recognition and appreciation should be bestowed on Coach Charlie Jacobs not Roland Ladner.

Sincerely yours,
Stephen Ladner

Dear Sir:

This letter is in reply to the letter in your newspaper on 3-20-80 from Eleanor C. McFie concerning dog fighting in Hancock County, specifically the Rocky Hill Community.

Her "grapevine" statement of "there was no such goings on in Hancock County until we heard of Rocky Hill" was a very degrading remark about our community.

Those kinds of statement would be better off left on the grapevine.

I live in the very heart of Rocky Hill and my family and I are definitely animal lovers.

I'm not too sure of the boundaries of Rocky Hill but if there are any such goings on anywhere near us, we have never even heard of them.

Eleanor McFie was right about one thing when she said there are some gentle, lovable people in Rocky Hill.

THE REAL WINDFALL
PROFIT TAX

Washington Report

By REP. TRENT LOTT
5th District, Mississippi

Now that President Carter has outlined his anti-inflation plan, I can tell you how he proposes to balance the federal budget: T-A-X-E-S.

I hope details of his proposal will be announced soon, but as of now it seems that the only solution President Carter can offer is a variety of new taxes. The way things are shaping up, the real windfall profits tax breaks down like this: The taxes are on the profits and productivity of the American people; the windfall is going to the government.

The centerpiece of President Carter's five-point plan is a gasoline conservation fee totaling $4.62 per barrel of imported oil. What that translates into for Mississippians is another 10 cents on the pump price of a gallon of gas, which is already among the highest priced in the country.

What it means for the federal government is a windfall of $11 billion in new money. President Carter said he would eventually ask Congress to replace the gasoline conservation fee with a permanent 14-cent tax on motor fuels. But, excessively high taxes are not the answer to inflation-troubled times.

Let's examine this tax burden more closely. Research by the House Budget Committee has found that 90 percent of the reductions in the federal deficit will be achieved by raising taxes, instead of lowering spending.

Inflation, the cruellest tax of all, continues to push taxpayers into higher income brackets and will have cost Americans some $800 billion by the end of this year. Yet, President Carter even wants to place a new withholding tax on interest and dividends you may earn from money in a savings account or other investments.

President Carter's domestic economic policies will have amounted to an increase in the tax burden of about $3,600 for every American family by the time his term ends. When he took office in 1977, federal tax collections amounted to $357.8 billion, according to the Budget Committee's research. This year, the federal government will collect an estimated $523.8 billion, unless some relief is granted.

I do not believe our country's economic problems can be solved by a budget based on continued high inflation, growing unemployment and recession. The President has yet to mention a tax cut, although the thrust of his proposal rests squarely on the taxpayers' shoulders.

The quickest way to get more investment, more savings and more production is to arm the American people with more of their own money. Government's share of your paycheck should be less.

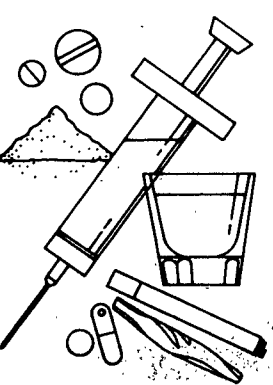

A budget that is balanced by raising taxes will be of little benefit and we must be careful not to be fooled into believing a lot of spending cuts are taking place. A few cuts are being talked about and actively considered; it's encouraging because a year ago too few Members of Congress and administration officials were even doing that.

DIRECTOR CERTIFIED—John Holderman, director of nursing at Hancock General Hospital in Bay St. Louis, recently received certification in Advanced Cardiac Life Support and as a Critical Care Registered Nurse. Holderman said there are only three certified CCRNs on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Local hospital nursing head certified in specialized field

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
John Holderman, director of nursing at Hancock General Hospital in Bay St. Louis, today will begin teaching a 34-hour critical care course to some 20 Gulf Coast nurses at Memorial Hospital in Gulfport.

Holderman was recently certified in Advanced Cardiac Life Support and as a Critical Care Registered Nurse.

"There are only two other nurses on the Coast I know of who are certified in critical care and they are both instructors at Jefferson Davis Junior College in Gulfport," Holderman said.

"We are the only hospital on the Coast, I know of, which has a nurse certified in the critical care area," Holderman stated.

"A CCRN has certified national recognition of mastery of intensive care training dealing with heart, lung, kidney and stroke problems. This also allows me to teach our nurses critical care procedures," the nursing director explained.

"In fact, I'll be instructing a 34-hour coronary care course to 20 nurses in Gulfport's hospital Thursday," Holderman added.

"At Hancock General I'm also the third staff member certified in ACLS by the National Heart Association. Sharon Lambert, a registered nurse here and Dr. Sidney Chevis are also certified in the cardiac program," the nursing director reported.

"The advanced cardiac program includes everything after Coronary Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR). We can supply all the advanced treatment that is available today," Holderman explained.

"We're luckier than many, many other hospitals. We have the knowledge, the personnel and the training to deal with coronary problems," Holderman said.

The nursing director stressed the need for more people to learn CPR methods and said, "By someone administering CPR it gives the victim a better chance for survival. All we need is that edge to help more of these people survive," Holderman stated.

Holderman also stressed the importance for local residents to bring persons with heart problems directly to Hancock General and explained, "the time it takes to get to another hospital could cause death if immediate treatment is not available."

The nursing director also voiced his disapproval of a recent Mississippi Nurses Association (MNA) recommendation for elimination of licensed practical nurses and said, "LPNs have been the backbone of nursing profession on the Gulf Coast for years and years."

"The key to the whole issue is that, according to the MNA, approximately 900 RN positions are vacant in Mississippi hospitals, more nurses left the state in 1978 than began working here and student enrollment has not increased in the state's nursing programs," Holderman explained.

"We have eight RNs and 12 LPNs at Hancock General with three vacancies for RNs," Holderman said.

"It's the little hospitals, like Hancock General, that would feel the pinch if LPNs were eliminated. We just can't afford to pay nurses with the kind of credentials the MNA is calling for," Holderman stated.

"We have 54 beds here and we usually run about 70 percent of full capacity. Our RNs are now working overtime because we lack three nurses," the nursing director added.

Comeaux allowed.

Then the engineer added, "The city needs more money for maintenance, if you could afford to reduce the losses to seven or eight percent in effect it would be a reduction in rates."

Comeaux explained at the beginning of his presentation that his firm was asked by the city to, "Look at the present rates and analyze the financial condition of the utility department."

Comeaux then went into how they analyzed the gas, water and sewer system to see which was 'paying its way.'

In the analysis the sewer system was losing $122,000 a year, at current rates.

Comeaux said, "We took into consideration salaries, bond indebtedness and depreciation," in studying the rate structures.

"From October, 1978 through September, 1979, gas costs to the city increased 117 percent. The city only raised their rates to their customers 98 percent," Comeaux commented, adding the city absorbed the loss.

In talking about the debt service, the Barbey Engineer commented, "As a minimum of 1.50 is required by the bond covenants and the system requires, significant improvements, we feel at 1.75 debt service coverage was, practical at this time."

The firm recommended because of the current high rates for gas, it would be economically advantageous for the city to spend money to repair the gas system problems, thus reducing the 15 percent losses.

Council discussed somewhat the possibility of what type of repairs they could possibly do, and mentioned a final area of the City is now being tested for leaks and they would look at the reports and then check the avenues possible.

Ms. Athalia Piernas, CAP director for Hancock County, said, "I am pleased with this study, our energy conservation is a must and we have to work towards that."

Ms. Piernas said in an interview after the meeting, that CAP is trying to get an energy audit team for Hancock County. The group of people would be trained to go out and talk to the elderly and low income residents on how they are wasting energy and ways of saving.

The local CAP director said, "We hope this project can be funded by the Energy Crisis Assistance Program (ECAP)."

Ms. Piernas said that CAP would continue its weatherization program and provide assistance wherever possible to the elderly and low income families in Hancock.

Appreciation was extended to Comeaux by all in attendance for the fine analysis of the utility system his firm submitted.

The new rate proposals have to be adopted by the Council and then an ordinance published in order for them to change the rate structure, according to Board Attorney Joseph Gex.

Council President Benvenutti extended a special thanks to the Concerned Citizens for 'stirring up the pot,' because they would not have had the survey done and end up the year $190,000 in the red.

Headstart continues registration

Hancock County's three Headstart programs are continuing pre-registration for sessions opening September 1980.

Mary A. Smith of Bay St. Louis, program community aide, said registration is continuing through Wednesday, April 9, from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the respective centers.

Evening registration hours will be conducted Thursday and Friday, April 10 and 11, when the centers will remain open from 8 a.m. until 6:30 p.m.

Four and five-year-old children are eligible, Ms. Smith said, with some three-year-olds also admitted.

Participants' family income should be below the OMB or welfare poverty guidelines, but children from families whose incomes are above those guidelines will be enrolled if space permits, Ms. Smith explained.

Documents necessary for pre-registration include certified copy of child's birth certificate, child's Medicaid number if applicable, immunization record, and proof of family's annual income.

The three centers serving Hancock County are Bay-Waveland Headstart on Bay Catholic Elementary's St. Rose Campus, 301 Necaise Avenue, Bay St. Louis; Cathahoula Headstart, Cathahoula Baptist Church, Hwy. 43 near Kiln; and Mt. Zion Headstart, Mt. Zion Church, Pearlinton.

County unemployment below state, U.S. rate

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Hancock County's February unemployment report shows a local unemployment rate slightly below state and national figures.

Recently released Mississippi State Employment Service figures report a county-wide unemployment rate of 6.6 percent for February.

These county figures are lower than the state unemployment rate of seven percent and the national 6.8 percent unemployment rate.

However, the 6.6 percent county unemployment figure represents a one-tenth percent increase from January and is higher than the 5.6 percent rate reported during February 1979.

Based on place of residence, state employment figures show 30 more people employed in the county, representing a February employment work force of 6,400, but 400 more available workers have entered the local civilian labor force, since last year, which offset increased employment.

Manufacturing employment, based on place of work, decreased from 1,060 workers in January to 1,040 workers in February.

Non-manufacturing employees, also based on place of work, increased slightly from 6,440 in January to 6,450 in February.

Overall, the county's available work force has increased by 220 persons since last year, but local employers are not hiring enough workers to reduce the unemployment rate.

The state's seven percent February unemployment rate is an increase of two tenths percent compared to January's 6.8 jobless rate, according to Mississippi Employment Security Commission Executive Director Edgar C. Lloyd, Jr.

The seven percent figure for the month was higher than the national rate of 6.8. MESC figures showed 919,400 employed and 68,900 unemployed out of a civilian labor force of 988,300. The initial unemployed insurance claims totaled 14,400 for February.

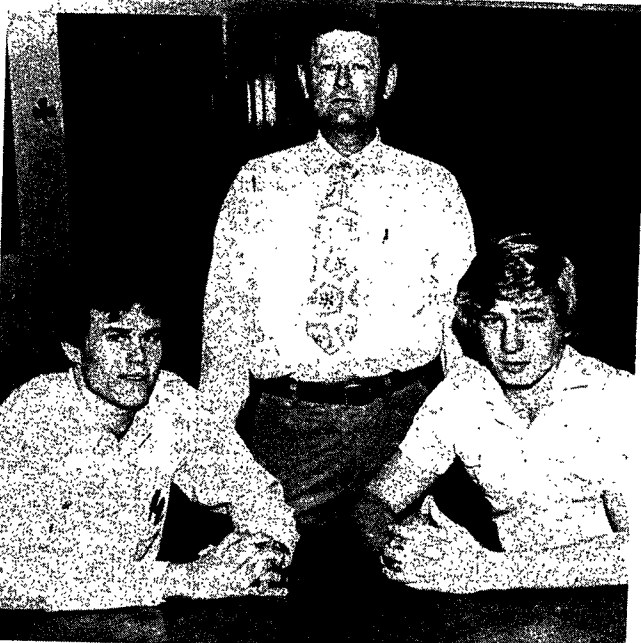

The counties having the highest rate of unemployment were Jefferson with a rate of 19.2, Sharkey with a rate of 16.9 and Noxubee with a rate of 14.9.

Oktibbeha, Lafayette, and Rankin had the lowest rate of unemployed. Oktibbeha had a rate of 3.7. Lafayette had a rate of 3.2 and Rankin had an unemployment rate of 2.5.

Fifty-one counties showed an increase in the unemployment rate for February while five counties remained the same.

these revised rates will sustain our earnings for only a limited period. Consequently, we will have to file another rate request sooner than would have otherwise been necessary," he said.

Mississippi Power Company is preparing revised rate schedules which will be designed to produce $16.8 million in additional revenues during the 12-month test year, October 10, 1979, to October 9, 1980, he added.

Daniel said that the company has until April 7, 1980, to file the revised rate schedules and to petition the Commission for approval. At that time, final details regarding any revenue refunds to customers will be determined.

Echoes

Frank Lee, Hancock County Farm Bureau president and County Chamber of Commerce board member, of the Leetown Community, was admitted to Crosby Memorial Hospital in Piquette with chest pains.

A hospital spokesman said Wednesday morning Lee was placed in the hospital's intensive care unit, but was taken out of ICU Monday.

Lee said Wednesday, "I had chest pains, but they haven't determined what caused them."

Lee added he is now undergoing tests and said, "otherwise I'm feeling well."

Brutal tort

The POW was imprisoned on Corregidor for sometime after his capture.

"The prisoners were given the job of picking up every scrap of metal on the entire island. We even collected used nails, placed all the scrap in metal drums. The Japanese then had us load it all up to send back to their mills in Japan," he recalls. "Before the Philippine Government fell, they crated all of their money and threw it into the sea at Corregidor. The Japanese took our divers, and forced them to dive and recover the treasury. The sea water caused the coins to tarnish, and we, as prisoners had to use sand and chemicals to clean them. It was in the hundreds of thousands of dollars," Curet commented.

From Corregidor he was moved to Bilid Military Prison on Manila.

Build Air Station

"At Bilid we built a naval air station for the Japanese. In this prison one of my best buddies had his head cut off by a Jap officer. He was a fiery type of a guy, an Irishman, and the Jap officer said he hated to kill him, because he had guts," Curet remembered.

When asked about the type of food received as a POW, Curet said, "We ate mostly unpolished rice and what ever vegetables were in season. We would eat anything that walked or crawled, the only thing we did not eat, or I see anyone eat was rats, and I think that was because we heard about the disease they cause and all."

Prison Farm

After the naval air station was constructed, Curet was moved to Cabanatuan Prison No. 1, Philippines.

"It was a big prison plantation where we grew the vegetables for the Japanese military. The job we dreaded most was the carrying of water to the fields. The prisoners carried two five gallon cans of water on the end of a stick which was called a 'yo ho pole,' I think," Curet remembers.

At Cabanatuan, Curet met an old friend Joseph Clay (J.C.) Baxter of Bay St. Louis when he was passing through. Curet said it is hard to remember just how long he was at the prison but it was about a year.

"One good thing about working on the farm, we would on occasion be able to sneak a little food out of the ends of sacks, or even snap the ends off from things like sweet potatoes and eat them. We had to be careful of the soybeans because if too many were eaten we would get sick," Curet allowed.

Sick of Eggplants

"We were loaded up in the holes of several ships and headed for Japan via Formosa. The ships had to zig-zag to avoid the American subs. Some of the ships were sunk by the American Navy, but I am sure they did not know American POW's were aboard.

Of that journey, he recalls: "It was dreadful cramped in the holes of the ship with very little air and meager food. On the ship, every POW wanted to be selected to work on a detail topside such as in the kitchen.

"My big day came, and I will remember it as long as I live. The China Sea was so rough, a person could not stand and they fed us boiled eggplants. I have never been so sick in all of my life, sick as a dog.

"Ruth knows not to feed me eggplants, as a matter of a fact she never learned how to cook them. Whenever we go out to eat, she will order them because she likes them, but me, I could never eat a piece of one for the rest of my life."

Curet was shipped to the U.S. Naval Hospital in New Orleans October 26, 1945, as returning Americans needing hospitalization were sent to the hospital closest to their homes.

After a short courtship with the girl next door, Ruth Favre, they were married in December, 1946 while he was home on leave from the hospital.

"Everybody said the marriage would not last, but we are still married today," Fred adds.

"Boy did we have trouble getting married. The priest when he tried to find my birth certificate could not find one. He went to my parents and said I looked up all the records and could not locate a Fred. Frederick or any other Curet similar to Fred Curet Jr."

When I enlisted in the Marine Corps, I signed up as Fred Curet Jr. My parents told the priest my real name was Wilfred (Fred) Aloysius Curet. I did not know my real name until I was 24 years old. I had to have all types of papers filled out stating that Wilfred Aloysius Curet Jr. was really Fred Curet Jr., because you know how the military is about correct names.

"From then on I went by the name of W. A. (Fred) Curet Jr. Then the priest said he would have to make the announcement three consecutive Sundays, but added he would make the announcement in three different churches," Curet remembers.

Ruth added that she was a country neighbor of Fred's but several years younger and they really did not get to know each other until she met him while home on leave.

HAPPY MARINE - This photo was taken of Fred Curet in 1940 at Cavite, Philippines. He weighed 220 pounds and by October, 1945 his weight had dropped to 78 pounds when he returned to the U.S. after being a POW. When the atom bomb was dropped on Nagasaki, he was on his way to work from Omura, Japanese prison camp to the coal mines under the Nagasaki Sea. Curet was within a 10-mile radius of the bomb strike.

17-year-old Marine recruit," Curet said, adding, I immediately went to work rebuilding myself physically."

Ruth recalls, "Fred always told me how when he was a POW at Omura Prison Camp near Nagasaki, the Japanese when they heard the Red Cross was going to visit, would put out all types of food and clothing items for the visitors to see, but dare us to take any. He would say the American prisoners would snatch up the items, even though they knew they would be beaten. Other nationalities would not defy the Japanese, like the Americans did in the prison camps."

Worked in Coal

Mine

Ruth recalls, "When Fred returned home he had slashes across his back which were black. They would beat him and coal dust would get into the torn skin and new skin would heal over."

When asked just what he did in the coal mine, Fred commented, "The mine was under the Nagasaki Sea. We went into the mine on cable cars - one job was to build the support walls with small trees and rock which was removed from between the layers of coal. Another job was to load the coal on the cable cars.

"You know the Japanese are about a foot shorter than we are, so we all had to stoop to work. Some of the POW's drilled holes for TNT charges. They would blast the coal with us in the mine.

"We did not handle the TNT, the Japanese of course had guards to watch us. The blasters were Japanese aged 10 or 12-years-old who handled the TNT in addition to the many generators.

"When the mine was built it was for the height of the Japanese and I sure felt sorry for one guy from Texas who was about 6-feet, 6-inches tall. If I am not mistaken, he was the very person I saw kill the prison commander after the bomb was dropped on Nagasaki," Curet continued.

Daily Steam Baths

"We worked 12 or 13 hours a day, depending on how much time it took us to reach the work area from camp. Temperatures in the mine were steaming hot. The pores of our skin would open and the coal dust would change us to black.

of them to be beaten and some even slain because of his telling on them," he recalls.

At Dead Whale

Curet said they would eat anything: "One day a dead whale was washed up by the sea near our camp. The American prisoners were left to eat it by the Japanese. The whole camp became sick from eating the oily meat, everyone was sick. I was even sicker than when I was in the China Sea."

Ruth can remember Fred saying, "When the American planes dropped food at his prison camp, many of the soldiers who went through over three years of torture, then died going after the food. "Some would be crushed by the falling drums of food, others by broken electrical wires which would electrocute prisoners when they tried to recover the food.

"Fred told me of many who died because they would over eat things like pure butter, chocolate and rich foods they were not accustomed to. He well remembers the sad part of how the prisoners went through so much and then would die just as the ordeal was over with."

HAPPY DAY - The day the Japanese surrendered there was joy throughout the world for American military, especially those in the prison camps of the Japanese.

HANCOCK SHERIFF - Fred Curet was elected sheriff and tax collector and served 1968-1972. Prior to being elected sheriff, he served nine years with the Mississippi Highway Patrol. After the War he re-enlisted in the Marine Corps and resigned in 1948 as a master sergeant.

"I was lucky, I made it home, thousands of Allied forces were not as lucky, many were killed. Their memories will always be on my mind and I am sure their families and loved ones will never forget them.

"This nation has to be strong and be ready to defend itself from any nation which tries to take over the world. War is hell! I was there, I

COUNTY BOY, MEMBER OF U. S. MARINE CORPS REPORTED MISSING

CORPORAL FRED CURET, JR.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Curet of Kiln were recipients of sad news this last Saturday afternoon, carrying the report that their son, Corporal Fred Curet, Jr., of the United States Marine Corps, was reported missing in action.

Fred, Jr., attended Saint Stanislaus College for one year and returned to Kiln High School to continue his studies. On September 5, 1939 he enlisted in the United States Marine Corps. At the time he was a senior at Kiln High School. He remained in San Diego, California, until March 30th, 1940, when he was transferred to the Philippines. Shortly after his arrival in the Philippines, he was made a Corporal of the 3rd, Battalion, 4th Marines. At the outbreak of the war he was placed on the eligible list for promotion to the rank of sergeant. The last news that his parents had from him, was a letter written on February 5, 1942 and received on April 2nd.

Fred, Jr., was born at Kiln on June 19th, 1922. He was on duty at Corregidor.

It is our sincere hope that this gallant young soldier did not lose his life, and our fervent prayer is that he will return to his parents and lend happiness to them, he being an only child. We are sure that all of the people of Hancock County who know Mr. and Mrs. Fred Curet and Fred, Jr., join us in this wish.

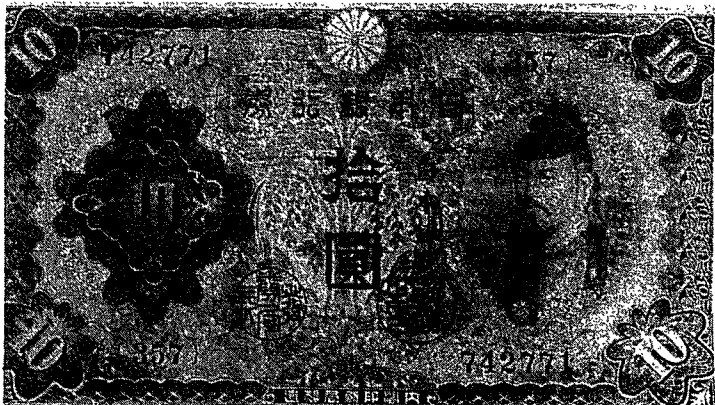

MISSING IN ACTION - This page one photo and article appeared in the Friday, May 15, 1942 issue of The Sea Coast Echo. A lead story in that issue of the Echo was headlined "Hancock County Boys Reported Missing in Manila Bay Area" with this sub-head, "George Walden Lee, Ruble Howell Cornet, William Riley Seal, and Fred Curet Jr. - Reports Not Definite - Probably Prisoners of War - All in U.S. Navy or Marine Corps."

Received this date June - 3/46 a money order from Fred Curet Jr. U.S.M.C., 273840, for the sum of $250.00 as payment of Bank of America ~~xxxx~~, San Francisco Branch, check issued by above named man, while imprisoned at Cabanatuan Prison Camp #1, Philippines Islands.

This money order is payment for Japanese invasion money lent
Fred Curet Jr. at the rate of 2 Japanese pesos for an American dollar. Thanks a million Mr Curet

REPAY LOAN - While a prisoner of War at Cabanatuan Prison Camp, Philippines, Fred Curet made a loan by writing a check on the Bank of America to a Philippine native. When he returned home he sent a money order to Mrs. R. N. Wright, Manila, Philippines and this was her receipt.

JAPANESE MONEY - This piece of Japanese currency is one of the mementos Fred Curet has from serving as a POW for more than three years after the fall of Corregidor.

hope some of the younger generation will also read up on the history of World War II, be informed as to just what a war really can and does do.

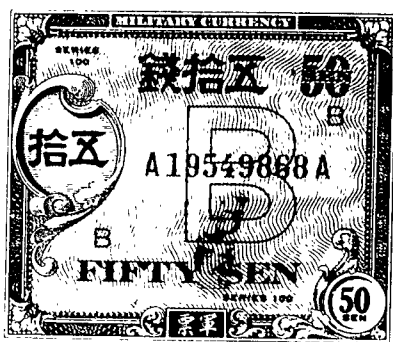

"Weapons have changed much since the atomic bomb in 1945. Just think of the destruction a war would cause today, not just in one country but world-wide," Curet added.

Praises Salvation Army
"When we were battling for our lives in Manila, Philippine Islands, The Salvation Army was right alongside us in the fox holes. They gave us hot chocolate, coffee or whatever they could get for us.

"I will never forget their dedication to the troops, and I will never pass a collection kettle without putting something in it for the Salvation Army," Curet proudly says.

Many books have been written about Corregidor and Bataan, and Curet wishes he was able to go to a big 35th anniversary celebration there, but because of his health he will be unable to. He does plan on attending some POW meetings in the U.S.

One book 'Rouges of Bataan,' was written by Ted Williams of Ocean side, Calif. who served with Curet in the Transportation Corps.

Williams mentions Fred's name in the book, "...spotted the Harley Davidson motorcycle that Fred Curet, Von Anderson and I had sold to a sailor only a few days before."

Radiation Hearings

The Kiln native has received an invitation to attend Citizens' Hearings for Radiation Victims, scheduled for Friday, April 11, through Monday, April 14, in Washington, D. C. and said he would like to attend if he is feeling well.

The Citizens' hearings have grown out of work by people who have become aware of "a consistent pattern of refusal by the federal government and reeducation producing industries to take responsibility for radiation..." the invitation reads.

Re-Enlist in Marines

Curet received his high school diploma by finishing at Kiln High School. He attended St. Stanislaus for only one year during his education and then returned back to the Kiln school system. He furthered his education after his return at various schools.

Things were going to well, so Curet said he re-enlisted into the Marines, in 1946.

"I attained the rank of master sergeant and would have probably stayed in, but in 1948 I got out for good when they wanted to send me from Camp Pendleton, Calif. to Korea."

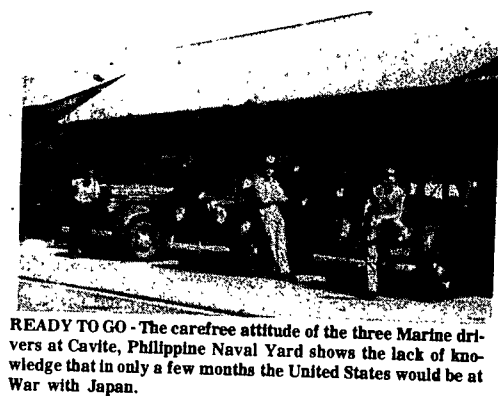

In 1948 Curet joined the Mississippi Highway Patrol and with the exception of taking off for a few years for private business, worked a total of nine years with the law enforcement agency.

He was elected Hancock County sheriff and tax collector and served from 1968-1972.

He now serves as an appointee representing Bay St. Louis on the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission. He was appointed by former governor Cliff Finch, on recommendation by Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett.

Fred is proud of a special medal he received several years ago from the Philippine Government, 'For The Defense of the Philippines.' He and his wife and daughter Jody reside in Bay St. Louis.

The Curets also have two sons, James Larry, a New Orleans school teacher, and Ronald who is employed at the airport in Orlando, Fla.

READY TO GO - The carefree attitude of the three Marine drivers at Cavite, Philippine Naval Yard shows the lack of knowledge that in only a few months the United States would be at War with Japan.

FRED CURET, JR.

To you who answered the call of your country and served in its Armed Forces to bring about the total defeat of the enemy, I extend the heartfelt thanks of a grateful Nation. As one of the Nation's finest, you undertook the most severe task one can be called upon to perform. Because you demonstrated the fortitude, resourcefulness and calm judgment necessary to carry out that task, we now look to you for leadership and example in further exalting our country in peace.

LETTER FROM PRESIDENT - At the end of World War II, Fred Curet received this letter of commendation from President Harry Truman.

SEARCHING FOR FRIEND - When the American forces retook the Philippines, Fred Curet's longtime friend Wilson Webre, shown here on guard duty, searched the Islands for him. Webre's family was living in the house where Curet was born in Kiln.

PROMOTED TO MASTER SERGEANT - When the war was over and Fred Curet returned home, he re-enlisted in the Marine Corps. In January, 1947, he is congratulated by Lieutenant Ashley on being promoted to master sergeant at Paris Island, S.C.

Commercial fishermen slate Biloxi symposium

The Third Annual Gulf Coast Fishermen's Symposium is slated April 1 at the Biloxi Beach Motor Inn on Hwy. 90 in Biloxi.

Several topics concerning Gulf Coast fishermen are slated for discussion at the day-long affair, beginning at 8:30 a.m. and continuing until 4:30 p.m.

A $10 registration fee to cover the cost of the Symposium and a buffet luncheon is requested.

The event is sponsored by the Sea Grant Advisory Service of the Cooperative Extension Service.

The Fishermen's Symposium is a fishermen's meeting designed to do several things. First of all it allows fishermen from up & down the coast the opportunity to get together in one place to meet old friends, make new friends, and, in general, learn more about each other.

VA News

AMERICANS ELIGIBLE

More than two out of every five Americans are potentially eligible for Veterans Administration benefits.

VA ANNIVERSARY

Established 50 years ago as an independent federal agency solely to aid American veterans and eligible dependents, the Veterans Administration will celebrate its 50th anniversary in July. Prior to 1930, responsibility for veterans' programs was shared by several federal agencies.

It's a time to talk about common problems and the solutions to those problems. It's a time to learn about new ideas for improving and about new challenges which can threaten the fishing industry's health.

It's a time to demonstrate to the rest of society that the fishing industry is indeed a strong and important building block of our society.

Those fishermen who attended the symposium last year felt that it was time well spent and asked us to hold the meeting again this year. For this reason, we are expecting a larger crowd at this year's meeting as more and more concerned fishermen learn about the benefits of such a meeting.

Some of the topics to be discussed will include:

—Shrimp boat rigging and gear for multipurpose fishing;

—Diesel fuel conservation measures for shrimp boat operators;

—The Vietnamese issue;

—How man is changing the size of our annual shrimp crop (what really determines the size of our annual shrimp crop); and —The new Department of Wildlife Conservation.

Karate students net medals

By RICH ADAMS
Sports Editor

Seven members of a Long Beach martial arts school recently brought home 10 medals as the only Mississippi representative in the Southern Amateur Athletic Association (SAAU) Tae Kwon Do Championships in New Orleans, La.

The seven students at Fisher's Karate Institute in Long Beach won five gold and five bronze medals at the SAAU-sanctioned event, Instructor Rodney Fisher reported Monday.

Medal winners include: Bobby Anderson of Gulfport, a gold medal in the fighting events; Dane Powell of Long Beach, a gold in Kata and a bronze in fighting;

Billy Geiger of Long Beach, a bronze in fighting;

Dennis Geiger of Long Beach, a gold in fighting;

Robert Hamaker of Long Beach, a gold in Kata and a bronze in fighting;

John Hawkins of Long Beach, a bronze in fighting; and Dana Staggs of Gulfport, a gold in Kata and a bronze in fighting.

"We were the only representatives of Mississippi to participate in the championships," Fisher said Monday.

His school is located on Cleveland Avenue in Long Beach.

Ocean Springs YMCA sets Super star event

The First Annual YMCA Junior High Super Star Competition, "Feelin' Good," is planned for Saturday, March 29, beginning at 9 a.m. at the Greyhound Stadium, Ocean Springs.

Application forms can be obtained from the various Junior High Schools in Hancock County as the event is open to all students of the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

The youth program coordinator, Sylvia Sprately, YMCA is the sister of Odele Peranich, Bay St. Louis.

The competition will be divided into three categories: mother-daughter, father-son and individual boy or girl.

"Stars" may participate in eight of 10 tie-breaker. Other events include the tire roll, barrel basketball, calf roping, push ups, sit ups, football throw, broad jump.

Registration fees are $3 for YMCA members, $4 for non-members. After March 22, registration will be $4 for members and $5 for non-members.

Friends and relatives may substitute for parents as long as they are over 35 years of age.

Trophies will be presented to first, second and third place winners in all categories.

Plans are being made to have a Super Star Competition for 5th and 6th graders in April and for 10th, 11th and 12th graders in May.

'Zero-plus' dialing due here in April

"Beginning April 15 South Central Bell's Lyman 832, Pass Christian 452 and Bayou LaTerre 255 exchange customers will begin using a new system that makes operator-assisted long distance calling faster and easier for telephone users," says district manager Franklin Kyle.

This new service feature is the result of a growth and modernization program planned during 1979 for the Gulf Coast exchanges. In correlation with this conversion, other coast exchanges will progressively be updated to this new system. On April 19, the exchanges of Gulfport 864, 863, 868, 865 and 896 along with Bay St. Louis 467, NSTL 688 and 689, Pearlport 531 and 533 will follow, and on May 3 Pascagoula 762, 769 and 938, Moss Point 474 and 475, Ocean Springs 875 and 872, Vancleave 826, Gautier 497 and Hurley 588 will be converted along with Biloxi 432, 435, 436, 388, 374, 377 and North Biloxi 392.

Also on April 19, the Gulfport Central Offices prefixes of 863, 864, 865 and 868 will be converted to the new Electronic Switching System called ESS.

Called Zero-Plus, Kyle said, the new service speeds the handling of person-to-person, collect, charge-to third party, credit card and coin long distance calls.

"Zero-Plus provides economy and efficiency by automating many of the routine aspects of long distance calls handled by operators," Kyle continued. "Switchboard cords, plugs and jacks are replaced by a modern console equipped with pushbuttons and a visual display panel."

According to Kyle, a remote trunking arrangement designed by Bell Labs and manufactured by Western Electric, is being implemented to provide Gulf Coast customers these new telephone services.

"All Gulf Coast exchanges are to be linked to an existing Zero-Plus system in Jackson," Kyle said. "This will result in helping us to hold down future cost and, at the same time, customers here will receive the speed and efficiency of their direct dialed calls requiring operator assistance."

"It features a computer-type stored program control system to direct and determine the status of calls," Kyle said. "In addition, the system can diagnose many of its own operating difficulties."

On person-to-person, credit card, collect and special billing calls from coin and non-coin telephones equipped for new service, the customer must first dial "0" and follow it immediately with the area code, if necessary, and then the number he is calling.

"This is a sizable undertaking involving every exchange on the coast, and additional testing time is necessary due to the volume of work involved, previous service dates have been advanced to provide this additional quality control interval," Kyle said.

Crime Commission offering reward for information

A $2,000 reward is being offered through the Mississippi Coast Crime Commission for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the three masked persons who robbed Lawson Gallotte at his residence in Biloxi on the evening of March 17, President Bob Jones of the Mississippi Coast Crime Commission said.

Funds for the reward are being provided by a confidential source; the identity of any person furnishing information will be held in strictest confidence, Jones said.

The three robbers, armed with shotguns, accosted Mr. Gallotte outside his residence on Bowen Street shortly after 9 p.m. March 17 and escaped with funds from his business. Executive Director John Montgomery stated the Mississippi Coast Crime Commission is continuing its practice of assisting effective law enforcement efforts by making its office available for funneling information of value to all levels of law enforcement.

Procedures to protect the identity of persons furnishing information and for the payment of rewards have been in effect for a number of years, tracing back to the "Turn In A Pusher," or "TIP" program sponsored by MCCC, Montgomery said.

Persons wishing to furnish information should phone the Mississippi Coast Crime Commission at 864-9885.

THE RAILROAD CYCLE

The rise and fall of American railroads is an economic melodrama with an ironic ending fit for a Hitchcock film—only the railway saga is for real.

The last two decades have seen once seemingly invincible U.S. rail corporations decline into receiverships, a vast shedding of former services and lines, and a very questionable future unless drastic changes are wrought. The railway concept is splendidous with a history that goes back into Europe's middle ages when miners used small wheeled carriages drawn over wooden rails to bring heavy minerals from the mines. An illustration of one such railway adorned a window of the Freiburg Cathedral in Switzerland about 1350. Two centuries later a central Europe mine in Alsace recorded use of a narrow-gauge mine railway. Nearly simultaneously, another was operating over timbered rails near Nottingham, England. Iron rails were born in Shropshire, England, by 1767, and flanged wheels showed up on horse drawn wagons in that country by 1815.

The steam locomotive was proven a reliable form of power, replacing in America in 1825 when John Stevens tested our first steam locomotive engine on a circular track at Hoboken, New Jersey. Stevens had chartered the first American rail line, the Pennsylvania Railroad, two years earlier.

The B & O was the first line in America to offer regular service as a public carrier in 1827. Its first engine, the Tom Thumb, built in 1829, managed only 1.43 hp. A few years later the South Carolina Railroad, in 1830, inaugurated the first regular steam railroad in America with an engine generating about 6 hp. This line with its American built engine was 136 miles long.

The South Carolina line used a pine-knot fire on its open platform car as its first headlight. Then followed candles and whale oil in reflector lamps. The U.S. mails were carried by rail for the first time over the S.C. line in 1831.

The 1830's through 50's saw a rash of railroad building in the nation. Mississippi recorded its entrance into railroading with her first steam train operated a short distance from Natchez pulled by the locomotive 'Mississippi' on April 24, 1837. Meanwhile in Pennsylvania during that same year a crudely converted day coach became the first railroad sleeping car.

Long distance railway express commenced in 1839, and in 1850 President Fillmore signed the first Federal railroad land-grant act with the specific purpose of promoting construction of a through rail route from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico. This Congressional land grant to Illinois, Mississippi, and Alabama consisted of alternate even-numbered sections for six miles on either side of the proposed rail routes. For the next 20 years the land grant policy was continued, hastening western development. About 10 percent of the total railway mileage of this nation was acquired in this way. The railroads repaid these original grants by carrying government troops and property at one-half fare or rate, and mail at four-fifths of established rates until the repeal of the mail provision in 1941 and military traffic provision in 1946.

Between 1850 and 1860 trackage grew from 9,000 to 30,000 miles with the golden spike pounded in ceremoniously at Promontory, Utah, on May 10, 1869, linking the nation with rail service from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The early 1900's marked the golden age of railroading. In 1961, total U.S. railway mileage reached a peak of 254,000 miles as small local lines were consolidated into major lines for efficiency. Luxury trains on major lines popularized rail travel.

World War I caused the railroads to be temporarily federalized for a daily loss of $2 million. Yet during World War II the privately operated railroads profitably moved more than 97 percent of all troops in organized groups and 90 percent of all military equipment and supplies. The latter included the operation of 113,891 special troop trains.

Gasoline rationing and rubber shortages resulted in a 30 percent decline in truck traffic between 1941 and 1944. During this period German submarines preying on east coast shipping lanes caused a 70 percent cut in coastal shipping which was transferred to the railroads. Movement of oil from the southwest to the east rose from 11,250 bbl. daily in '41 to over one million daily in 1943. Passenger and freight traffic enjoyed boom days likewise during World War II.

The post-war period saw combined factors at work to spell doom for the rails. Wartime shortages were over and trucking soared. The interstate systems were putting Americans on the roads in new cars. The wartime captive passenger and freight market was gone, and as rail receipts fell inflation was eating away at rail service and maintenance. By the late sixties, U.S. railroad mileage had declined nearly one-fifth from the record mileage of 1916.

Air carriers intensified the pressure on railroads which were forced to remove so many rail cars from passenger trains that annual mail revenues dropped $80 million in a five year period. Strong rail unions forced wages up despite curtailed income and the term "featherbedding" became synonymous with short work hours for railroad operating crews at constantly increasing wages and rules concerning hour and mileage limitations.

Today the irony of the railroad story is that U.S. railroads are losing money at a time that new opportunities beckon out of the energy shortage. Railroads are cutting out non-profitable and least-profitable lines alike. And meanwhile over the nation, the superhighways are being completed at a time that gasoline shortages and prices are sharply reducing their transportation role.

When Japan entered the 70's with enviable modern, lightweight, high speed passenger trains, the U.S. system seemed by comparison to be dying on the vine. European trains today, many of which are nationalized, continue to render a strong passenger and freight service with few symptoms of the American rail syndrome.

Mass transit needs today in the U.S. may provide the tonic to revitalize America's transportation giant now taking the long count face down on the mat. Agriculture, industry and a swelling population need the champ back in action. We hope a resurgence will be in time to save one of America's most significant business institutions!

Mayor Bennett, Maurice Colly, landlord, Bill Pittman and Mrs. Wallace Colly. The building originally constructed by the Sea Coast Echo in 1902 has been completely renovated by Maurice Colly in efforts to rejuvenate the downtown business community. (Staff photo-Ellis Cuevas)

TOURING ECHO BUILDING—Brownie Troop 478 of St. Clare School in Waveland recently made a tour of the Sea Coast Echo plant on Court Street in Bay St. Louis. While at the office the Brownies saw how computers are used in production of a newspaper, witnessed layout procedures, and saw the printing press in action. Brownies touring the main office are, from left, Susan Garcia, Brandy Gelpi, Kim Green, Jeannine Standford, Schoen Heier, Cissy Randolph, Melinda Miller, Shelly Weidman, Claudine Cassidy, Stacy O'Brien, Therissa Gagnon, and Alison Miller. Troop leader is Dianne Miller, and assistant troop leader is Mrs. Lynn Godard. (Staff photo-Rich Adams)

The Mississippi Gulf Coast Council of Garden Clubs' 33rd Annual Spring Pilgrimage '80 will begin in Hancock County at 10 a.m. Wednesday, April 9 with a special tour of the National Space Technology Laboratories.

Tours of homes and gardens in Diamondhead will begin at 10:30 a.m. Friday, April 11 with Bay St. Louis and Waveland tours starting at 10 a.m. Wednesday, April 16.

NSTL
Terry Malone, chief of Information Services and pilgrimage coordinator for NSTL, said, "Beginning at 10 a.m. there will be hourly briefings at the Visitor Information Center (Building 1200) followed by 45-minute rolling tours of our facility until 3 p.m."

"The public is invited to this free tour and maps and information will be given to visitors directing them to Building 1200 at both the north and south gates," the pilgrimage coordinator said. The special tour will include the Space Shuttle Test Complex, a view of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's laboratories, various NSTL agencies and the site of the former town of Gainesville which was the county seat many years ago.

Mack Herring, NSTL's public affairs officer, reported, "In the Gainesville area, on the banks of the East Pearl River, visitors will see the former site of the old Hancock County Courthouse, the encampment area where Andrew Jackson's army stopped on its way to fight in the 1812 Battle of New Orleans, and will be able to look across the river at the untouched Honey Island Swamp."

"The Honey Island Swamp was a favorite hide-out for the famed pirate Jean Lafitte," Herring added.

"Visitors will view some 20 elements of six cabinet-level departments and the Naval Oceanographic Center, all located at NSTL," the public affairs officer stated.

Malone said, "The tour bus will pause briefly in a couple of places for photographs and we welcome people to bring their cameras."

"This year we are limited to one 45-person bus for each tour, so those people who are not able to get on the bus will be asked to follow in their cars," Malone stated.

The pilgrimage coordinator added a dutch-treat lunch will be available in the NSTL cafeteria from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

DIAMONDHEAD

Some four homes and a yacht will be viewed in the Diamondhead portion of the Pilgrimage from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Friday, April 11.

The first hour of the tour will begin at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Galvin at 773 Puna St.

Their ranchstyle residence features wood casement windows, glass sliding doors in each room which open to a full length patio, and a multi-color leaded front door.

The cyprus and Arkansas stone constructed home of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Underwood, 7712 Laie Place, will be opened from 11:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.

The Underwood home features a great room with a deck which stretches along the back of the house and overlooks No. One tee and No. Nine green of the Pine Golf Course.

Following a Dutch treat luncheon at the Diamondhead Country Club, the home of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Haurin, 668 Hale Court, will be opened from 1:30-2:30 p.m.

This large, contemporary, energy efficient home overlooks the 17th green, and was designed and built by the Hourins.

The natural cedar board and batten sided home has an open, airy interior with many energy efficient features.

The Hourin's landscaping blends with natural surroundings without any maintenance.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Medford, at 6518 Mauna

Loa Court will be viewed from 2:30-3:30 p.m.

The Medford's designed and built their rustic, contemporary home themselves except for the plumbing, electrical wiring, framing and swimming pool work.

Their home has an 'unusual personal kitchen,' a wine cellar, a large workshop and ample storage space.

This Diamondhead home is unique because it contains no hallways due to the angular construction of the home.

The last home on the Diamondhead tour is the motor yacht 'Sunshine' docked at the Diamondhead Marina.

Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Koenenn live on this 50-foot, two-story motor yacht which will be open from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m.

The Koenenn's recently purchased their plushly decorated home from a Maryland owner and have adapted the boat's interior for Gulf Coast living.

Surrounding the 'Sunshine' are hundreds of acres of Mississippi wetlands and winding bayous, typical of Mississippi tidal areas.

BAY-WAVELAND AREA

The cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland will be featured, in Pilgrimage '80, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday, April 16.

In addition to the scheduled Pilgrimage, the Bay-Waveland Garden Club will have a 'Spring Flower Show' featuring horticulture, design and special exhibits divisions.

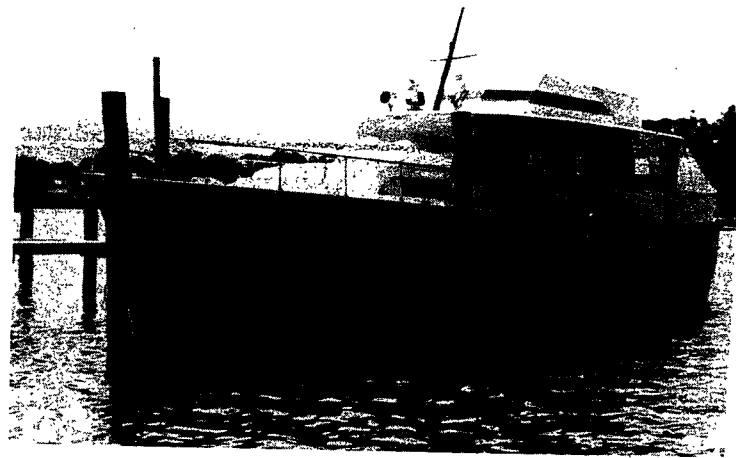

The tour will start at the Bay-Waveland Garden Center, 114 Leonard Ave. in Bay St. Louis. Coffee will be served, and information and maps for the day's events will be distributed.

Included in the tour will be the Bay St. Louis homes of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wagner, 338 Main St.; Mrs. C. R. Beyer, 410 Carroll Ave.; Mr. and Mrs. William Pittman, 226 South Beach Blvd.; and the Waveland home of Mr. and Mrs. Spurgeon C. Crosby at 209 Piney Ridge Road.

Also on the tour in addition to the homes are Architect Fred Wagner's office at 342 Main St. and Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church at 230 South Beach Blvd., both in Bay St. Louis.

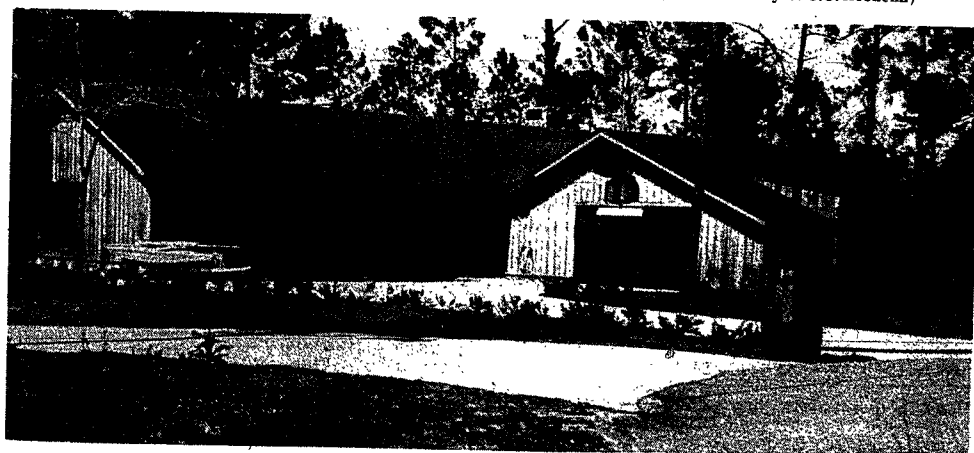

EDITORS' NOTE: A complete description and pictorial display of the homes and buildings featured on the Bay-Waveland tour, along with details on the Spring Flower Show, will be published in an upcoming issue of the Sea Coast Echo.

Roland Ladner

Roland Ladner Day set Sunday

By RICH ADAMS
Sports Editor

Hancock North Central Head Basketball Coach, under consideration by the United States legislature for recognition as winningest active coach in the nation, will be honored Sunday with a day in his honor.

The 50-year-old Bay St. Louis native, who has dedicated his talents to coaching rural Mississippi teams, has compiled 806 wins coaching varsity boys' teams against 249 losses.

Ladner will be honored at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum Sunday at a 2 p.m. reception, which is expected to be attended by many local and state officials.

Ladner's win-loss record over 28 years of coaching is in the process of being sanctioned by the National Federation of State High School Association as the winningest coach in the nation, according to Mississippi Association of Coaches Executive Secretary Bernard Blackwell.

Blackwell said last week Ladner's record has not been finalized yet because a Texas coach is challenging the number of wins, claiming he has a similar record.

Ladner recently explained his commitment to coach and teach at rural Mississippi schools despite better offers money-wise from a number of colleges.

"I have had to turn down encouraging offers, both in finance and advancement, in Mississippi, Louisiana, and Texas from junior colleges and high schools because of a commitment I made to myself and God," Ladner said.

"I promised that if I were given the opportunity to coach and teach, I would give my first 25 years of service to rural Mississippi," he continued.

"I learned from attending a rural school that so little is offered in academics and athletics. My rural background did much to influence my philosophy of life and of coaching," the coach said.

"I sincerely believe coaching is a calling as is the ministry. I believe there are and should be great carry-over values in life's journey for these young athletes," he continued.

"They should experience success and failure, ups and downs, excitement and disappointments, glory and despair. They should learn how to lose and how to be a graceful winner, how to turn their defeat and failure into success, how to set reasonable goals and then strive to achieve them," Ladner explained.

Last month the coach expressed doubts in remaining at Hancock North Central, mainly due to what he calls a "harassment campaign" he believes is being directed at him by the administration.

"I have a certain sense of pride. I'm trying to do my best. I am tired of what has been going on here for the past 17 years," Ladner said.

"I want to extend an invitation to my friends, supporters, and former players to join me at the Coliseum Sunday," Ladner said.

Rooks wins main event

By RICH ADAMS
Sports Editor

Bay-Kiln-Waveland Boxing Club Star Todd Rooks upset Ocean Springs' Jeff Cowart on Cowart's home ground last weekend to win the main event of a bout in Ocean Springs.

"In the first round Todd came out of the corner like a Texas whirlwind, hitting Cowart with combinations to the head and body," Head Coach John Whisenant said.

"The second round was Todd's best as he kept his opponent rubber-legged against and through the ropes, demonstrating his dominant strength over Cowart," the coach added.

Whisenant said the main event trophy is the largest ever awarded an amateur boxer in this part of the state. Rooks had been defeated by Cowart on March 8 during a match in the Bay St. Louis DAV Hall.

An official's error cancelled bouts slated for BKW Boxers Ronnie Peterson II and Shane Kowalski, according to Whisenant.

Peterson was slated to box Calvin Fickery of Marrero, La., and Kowalski was matched with Jim Edwards of Hattiesburg.

The mistake was noted in the first round when Edwards and Fickery were battling in the ring and an official stopped the fight.

The two local boxers were then called to the ring and awarded large trophies without ever throwing a punch.

Mike McClain of the BKW squad lost a decision to Garry Heath of the Marrero Club.

"Mike had Heath in trouble in the third round but could not pull it off," Whisenant said. McClain defeated Paul Elliot of the Biloxi Boxing Club Sunday in a decision.

The Bay-Kiln-Waveland Club will participate in the Junior Olympics in mid-May at Shreveport, La.

College All-Stars regain St. Rose crown

By CATHERINE LIZANA

The College All-Stars regained their crown as defending champions of the St. Rose Double Elimination Semi-Professional Basketball Tournament as they edged the Mobile Blazers 90-89 here Sunday.

The All-Stars take the rein from the defending New Orleans Gumbo, who were defeated earlier in the competition.

The Blazers were undefeated in this year's play until Sunday's match against the All-Stars, who recorded a 5-1 slate in the tournament.

The 23-team slate in this year's tournament proved to be one of the largest independent tournaments in the South, drawing professional scouts and talent from various universities and colleges as well as local court artists.

The All-Stars' only defeat came earlier in the tournament at the hands of the Blazers.

Sunday the College team defeated the Heavy Heat of New Orleans, putting them in the semi-final competition.

They then defeated the Blazers twice to become the tourney champs.

Last year the All-Stars played bridesmaid to the New Orleans Gumbo after winning the competition two consecutive years before.

All-Stars' Head Coach Saunders Bell said, "This is the best team in seventeen years to participate in this tournament."

Loiacano contemplates move from MSU

Mississippi State University strength coach and Bay St. Louis native J.E. Loiacano may leave the university to take over management of his family's health club here.

Loiacano, a former Bay High head football coach, said he could return to Bay St. Louis as early as May to assume ownership of the Loiacano Health Club on Main Street.

"Right now I am having a heck of a time thinking about what to do. It is not easy. I enjoy this place (MSU)...it's nice and the people are really involved," Loiacano said.

The 38-year-old Loiacano accepted the MSU position in January 1978 after guiding the Gulfport Admirals to the 1977 Big Eight Conference football championship, ending the year with an 11-1 season.

In addition to Gulfport and Bay High, he had previously coached at Gulfport East, accumulating a prep win-loss record of 700.

"I do miss coaching on the field. I miss the competition. However, I like being a strength coach here," Loiacano said.

Soccer seminar slated

Ken Cooper, North American Soccer League (NASL) leading goal keeper and coach of the division winning Houston Summit Indoor Soccer Club, will conduct a free soccer clinic at Gulfport High School Saturday from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.

Cooper holds NASL career records with 51 shutouts, 922 saves, and tiebreaker victories.

The seminar is sponsored by the South Mississippi Soccer Association, Dr. Pepper Bottling Company, Sonic Drive-In at Courthouse Road, and WQID radio station.

"You get to work with all sports. It keeps you on your toes and keeps you involved. Your are not just confined to football," the former Bay High taskmaster said.

Bay native named Vols gridiron coach

Bay St. Louis native Alex Romanoff, a former gridiron specialist for Bay High, was recently named athletic director and head football coach at Starkville Academy.

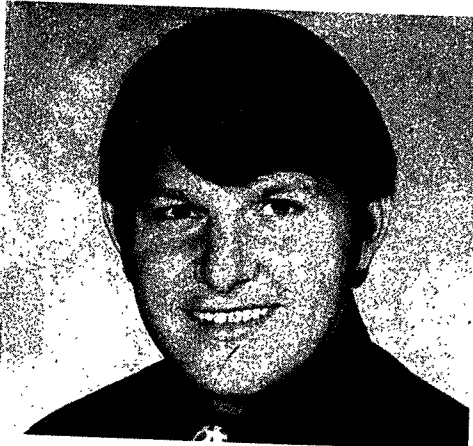

Romanoff was an All-State fullback for Bay High and starting center at Mississippi State for three years, is currently a teacher at the Webster County Vocational Center in Eupora.

Romanoff, 30, son of Mrs. Gordon Romanoff of Bay St. Louis, was a member of the M-Club and won the senior athlete scholastic award while at MSU.

He was also a Dean's Scholar and a President's Scholar.

"We are very pleased to be able to employ a man of Coach Romanoff's character, leadership, and educational background," Starkville Academy Headmaster J.E. Logan said in making the announcement Feb. 21.

After serving as a graduate assistant coach at MSU, Romanoff spent three years as assistant coach at Columbus Lee High School before spending three years in private business.

Hard luck hits Hancock boxers

By RICH ADAMS

Sports Editor

The Hancock Boxing Club ran into some hard luck this weekend as they lost seven fights in as many attempts, according to Head Coach Harvey Mitchell.

Saturday the team traveled to Ocean Springs, where Timmy and James Bourgeois and Sam Schoonmaker lost close decisions against Ocean Springs and Biloxi boxers.

James Bourgeois lost a close decision to Kenny David of Ocean Springs in their three one-minute rounds of boxing, while Timmy Bourgeois lost to Trent Daughes of the Ocean Springs squad.

Golden Gloves Champion Sam Schoonmaker lost a decision to Terry Kennedy of Biloxi in that match, Mitchell reported.

Sunday the team traveled to Gulfport where Jay Ladner of the Hancock squad met Mike Lawton of Saucier in an exhibition match.

Lawton has fought 13 exhibition bouts compared to Ladner's three, and Mitchell reported Ladner "put on a good show."

James Bourgeois lost a decision to Guy Allen of Gulfport Sunday, and Schoonmaker lost a close match with Keith Switzer of the Gulf Boxing Club.

Jeff Hicks of Hancock went against Tracy Vaughn of the Ocean Springs squad and threw in the towel in the first ring after the Hancock pugilist threw a muscle in his shoulder.

The fight was declared a resignation by injury, Mitchell reported.

Hancock Women report

The Homesteaders lead by three games in the Hancock Women Bowling League as Teresa Carr rolled a 186 and Margaret Acaley recorded a 160.

The Good Times are in second place with Pat Wallace rolling a 446 series.

Anything Goes is in third place, but is receiving pressure from Ruth's Pin Pushers.

The Lucky Sevens are in fifth place after defeating their opponent in three straight games.

Shears Delight still remains in sixth place.

Trouble Shooters are up to seventh place.

The Goof-Offs dropped to eighth place.

The Blankety-Blanks are only one-half game behind the Goof Offs, followed by the Lucky Ladies who are riding the cellar.

BRIDESMAIDS—The Mobile Blazers took home a second place trophy Sunday in the St. Rose Semi-Professional Double Elimination Basketball Tournament. The Blazers are the only team registered with the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) and were chosen from five AAU-sanctioned squads to represent the United States in a National Basketball Tournament in Mexico

SALE

WHEREAS, Martin A. Morreale became indebted to Gulf National Bank, Gulfport, Mississippi, and in order to secure the indebtedness, executed and delivered, on

December 19, 1978, a Deed of Trust to Webb M. Mize, Trustee for Gulf

National Bank, beneficiary, which

Deed of Trust is recorded in Book

215, at pages 351-353, of the Records of Mortgages and Deeds of Trust on

Land in Hancock County,

Mississippi; and,

WHEREAS, the said Deed of Trust provides that, in the event default is made in the payment of the secured indebtedness, and additional amount of fifteen percent (15 percent) shall be added thereto as attorneys' fees, and default has been made in the payment of the secured

indebtedness and Gulf National Bank has exercised the option provided in the Note evidencing the said indebtedness declaring the whole of the unpaid principal balance, together with interest, immediately due and payable, as well as attorney's fees; and,

WHEREAS, the said Deed of Trust

provides that, in the event default,

the Trustee shall, upon the request or demand of the Beneficiary, sell said property, as is provided in the said Deed of Trust; and,

WHEREAS, default has been made in the payment of the secured

indebtedness and Gulf National

Bank, the Beneficiary in said Deed of Trust, has requested the Trustee designated Trustee to make foreclosure under said Deed of Trust;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Webb M.

Mize, Trustee, do hereby give notice that I will, on Friday, April 4, 1980, during legal hours, at the front door of the Hancock County Court House in Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, offer for sale and sell at public outcry to the highest and best bidder for cash, the following described property, which is described in said Deed of Trust, said property being located in Hancock County, Mississippi, and more fully described as follows, to-wit:

The land described as being part of the West half (W/4) of the SE/4 of Section 33, Township 8 South, Range

14 West, Hancock County,
